Nowadays many tourists fly straight to their holiday resort and almost never leave it. Tourists try to spend their holiday in foreign country. Especially, in beaches of the sea. They try to look in all sights. And, I think it is right. But in 1960s tourist return home with no experience.

As for me, I hardly ever visit other cities, especially countries to spend my holiday. I am visiting other cities only to go in for sport competitions. But I try to see every sight, to visit some shops. To eat some ~~native~~ native food, if I go in foreign country. Every time, when I travel, I enjoy unknown places very much, and I try to compare it with sights of my native city and sights of other places.

But in 1960s, tourists travel only to relax, their ~~visit~~ trip wasn't interesting. I don't know exactly, but I think that their trips was boring. Because, I like to get experience of native beauty of other cities.

So, I think that by the time, people became more curious. In the past, they thought that they native country was the most beautiful, and they have no reason to explore new lands for them.
